

JULIE BELIN

Julie Belin's quilting career began nearly four decades ago after receiving a quilt as a wedding gift. When her husband challenged "you could make that" the journey began. Although originally self-taught, Julie's professional background as an engineer and high school math teacher strongly influenced her approach to quilting, fostering a deep appreciation for precision piecing and efficient construction methods.

Wanting to share quilting tips and techniques with others, she became a certified quilt instructor for Studio 180 Design, Sew Kind of Wonderful, Legit Kits, and Quiltworx. These certifications have opened the door for her to share her enthusiasm for quilting across the country through workshops and lectures at guilds, retreats and quilt shows. She is passionate about quilting education and enjoys helping quilters turn complex patterns into achievable, rewarding, and fun projects.

When Julie isn't teaching or lecturing, you can find her busy with her many guilds planning events, quilting for charity, long-arming for her business or maybe even playing in her garden.
